

Colorado Eagles coach Pankewicz strips in protest

BY NATHAN LIEWICKI, EDMONTON JOURNAL

Published: Wednesday, February 23, 2011

Colorado Eagles assistant coach and Drayton Valley native Greg Pankewicz will never live down his actions last Saturday night.

With the Eagles leading the Mississippi River Kings 4-1 early in the third period of their Central Hockey League tilt, a skirmish ensued after linesman Chris Wilson tackled one of the Colorado players away from a fight already in progress. Pankewicz, infuriated by the linesman's actions, jumped down from the bench and started screaming face-to-face with Wilson.

But screaming wasn't enough for the former NHLer, who played 21 games with the Ottawa Senators and Calgary Flames. He hopped back on the bench and began stripping off pieces of clothing -including his shoes -and tossing them onto the ice in a rage.

Pankewicz left the bench wearing only pants and socks and still barking at Wilson.

Check out Pankewicz's tirade on YouTube at: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=GcdEBHOS3rM>

nliewicki@edmontonjournal.com